WEARING BLUE JEANS

YES.
Thank you for your support.
We know that because you're wearing blue jeans doesn't really mean we can assume you're gay, and we hope you know that our being gay doesn't really mean that we're raging dykes or wack-kneed pansies. We'd like to end these and other stereotypes, not only because they're false, but because they're demeaning to both you and us as human beings.

NO.
Maybe you're one of the two people on campus who don't own blue jeans.
The rest of you were thinking: Would something be "wrong" if people thought you were gay? Well, there's nothing wrong with being gay. And we think it's time you learned why. Come to the Coolidge Room in Palmer Hall tonight at 9. Bring your questions, fears, and prejudices.
