

WELCOME NEW STUDENTS!

Tufts Undergraduate Orientation is a week designed to show you the Tufts Experience. This week marks the beginning of an important journey you will never forget. On this Hill, you will find professors who will inspire you, build friendships that will stay with you forever, and create memories to treasure for life. The Tufts experience is about growing as an individual and as a member of the larger campus community. During Orientation, you will learn about some of the University's most important lessons and traditions. This week is also about making connections. Take the time to connect with your peers, your advisors, and your University. Some of the bonds that begin here are sure to last throughout your time at Tufts and even long after. Welcome to the Hill!

During Orientation, you will . . .

- learn about what Tufts University offers;
- meet with First-Year Assistants and other student leaders who will introduce you to university resources and answer your questions;
- form friendships with your peers and learn more about yourself in the process;
- collaborate with your academic advisor to assess your academic skills and prepare for the responsibility of making choices about your education;
- meet with faculty and staff members and explore the breadth of your educational opportunities;
- learn about the many co-curricular activities offered by Tufts' student organizations and athletics programs.

This calendar lists all events and activities happening during Orientation week. Please take some time to review the calendar and make note of the events you will be attending. While all programs are important, many of the programs are mandatory. All mandatory programs are highlighted with a SHADOW BOX. Some programs are specific to certain groups and will be marked with the respective icons, Engineering (EN), Arts & Sciences (A&S), Transfer (TRSF), SMFA (SMFA), SMFA Combined Degree (CMBD), and Open to All Students (ALL). Many programs are designated by your Residence Hall so please review the calendar carefully. Please bring your Tufts ID to all mandatory events and all meals. Descriptions of all programs are listed in the glossary at the end. For the most up-to-date information and schedule, please download the app, Tufts Mobile.

Orientation reflects what your life at Tufts will be:
*Intellectually stimulating and rich in experience.

"Beer Goggles" to Blackouts, "the Munchies" to Memory Problems: The Science of Alcohol and Marijuana, with Dr. Jason Kilmer

People say they feel more social, more outgoing, and more confident when they drink alcohol, but does alcohol really do those things? With so much being debated about what marijuana does or doesn't do, what does the research actually say? How come the ability to "hold your liquor" could disappear if someone drinks in an unfamiliar setting or consumes unfamiliar drinks? Learn about the answers to these questions and more as we discuss what the science says about these issues. We will also talk about ways to reduce the risks associated with substance use (when applicable), and ways to look out for a classmate or friend. Dr. Jason Kilmer currently works at the University of Washington in both a student affairs role and as an Associate Professor in Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, and serves as an investigator on several studies evaluating prevention and intervention efforts for alcohol, marijuana, and other drug use by college students. Jason has presented at Tufts over the past year to hundreds of student leaders. The programs were a unanimous success and ended with a standing ovation every time. Here is what some of our current student leaders have said about Jason.

"This was probably the best of this sort of talk I have heard in my entire educational career. He is engaging, interesting and presented scientific and empirical information in a digestible way. This talk prompted discussion between myself and other staff members on our own personal drinking habits."

Thinking of Majoring in IR

The International Relations Program at Tufts University offers a course of study for undergraduate students with a primary interest in international and regional studies. The field of international relations includes the study of: the history, politics, economics, and cultures of regional systems around the world; international economics; global health, nutrition, and the environment as they relate to international relations; the causes and consequences of war and the conditions for peace; the spread of ideas through global practices and behaviors such as human rights, migration, urbanization, media, technology, empires and colonialism, and the study of culture; and how individuals perceive themselves in their relationships to the world through prisms such as gender, class, religion, race, nationality, and ethnicity. A major in international relations is interdisciplinary and both faculty and students in international relations strive to compare and integrate the methodologies and evidence they acquire in different disciplinary settings as they seek answers to similar questions. Majors in International Relations must also display oral and written proficiency in a foreign language. Thorough language study is an essential tool for developing cultural literacy and sensitivity, which are important goals of the major. Proficiency is met by eight semesters of instruction or the equivalent in a single language.
