Can I take a career “test” to figure out what I want to do?

We do offer a number of career assessment tools, including the Strong Interest Inventory, the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator, numerous worksheets, and more.

Good news: these tools are assessments, not tests, so there are no right/wrong answers! On that note, it’s important to remember that there’s no “magic test” (a.k.a. assessment) that will tell you exactly what you should do. In 1-on-1 meetings with career advisors, we help students determine which assessment(s) would be most beneficial for their particular stage of career development.
